Dear Mr Devedjiev

~~2000 OUTSTANDING SCIENTISTS 2008/2009~~

The New Oxford English Dictionary defines a scientist as "a person who is studying or has expert knowledge of one or more of the natural or physical sciences".

Surely, Mr Devedjiev, this definition is the reason for your selection to be included in this prestigious publication which is due for release in mid 2009. I invite you to take your place within its pages. Only two thousand scientists can be featured from across the world and I therefore urge you to complete the enclosed questionnaire as soon as possible. The International Biographical Centre is one of the leading research institutes of its kind in the world today. It publishes a wide range of titles including Dictionary of International Biography, now in its 34th Edition and first published in 1962. 2000 Outstanding Scientists 2008/2009 will provide an important part of this biographical stable and as all IBC titles will be made widely available to Librarians, Research institutes and Academics worldwide. It goes without saying that copies will be housed in the leading libraries of the world including the Library of Congress in Washington DC and the British Library in London. For further details please refer to our website www.internationalbiographicalcentre.com

Inclusion is based on merit alone and there is no obligation to purchase a copy of 2000 Outstanding Scientists 2008/2009 whatsoever. However, Mr Devedjiev I recommend you to study the Reservation Form and return it to me by the date shown or as soon as possible. A limited number of copies are available to biographies only at special reduced prices on the publication rates.

I look forward to receiving your completed questionnaire. Inclusion is a sign of recognition.

Sincerely

Nicholas S. Law
Director General

P.S. I would be very grateful to receive the names of colleagues or friends that you believe deserve consideration for inclusion in this title. You will find a Recommendations Form on the reverse of this letter.
